

Babe,
 I really feel like being with you now. I miss doing stuff with you. I really enjoy your companionship and it does make a difference when you're not here. You're my babe and I'm anxious to hug you and smell your smell and hear your voice. It's been a long time. I must say, it's gone really fast - but it's too long to be without my babe. My, I like the postcards you send me. Thank you, they sounds like you're doing good. I'm happy things are going well for you.

I'm having a great week myself. The weather's been just right and I've been running a lot and playing a lot of frisbee (both of which are fast becoming my favorite past-time - & biking's in there too). It did rain today though and I usually don't run in the rain, but I felt like running so I did. I got really soaked but it was a good run anyway. Yesterday while running, there was a hang glider (with a motor) up there and at one point, was right above me and I could see these legs hanging down - it was really cool. It seems like a neat thing to try. I have to do something crazy during my lifetime (besides marry you). I mean I am getting up in years - like you said, the big 22. Yesterday, Mike + I took off for lunch. We were just sitting in the department waiting for the others to get back from their lunch and neither one of us were onto working - due to nice weather so I said, let's go to the parkway for lunch, so we did and we played frisbee and just sat in the sun. It was fun and was neat - cause nobody knew we even left the hospital. I got sick of being in that stuffy place all day:

Tonight I was up at the mall for a while and I bought a pair of running shorts (made esp. for women). The price ($11.00) is ridiculous but I figured they were worth it cause they'll be perfect for running they're very light + short + loose - 3 good things. Also, a shirt came with it + it's pretty nice. I got them at Herman's. By the way, the nylon socks work good - no blisters since. You, are very nice to me, babe to give me those - thank you.

I sent out all the applications today along with resume's. I prayed about it before I mailed them and it's in His hands. I feel totally at peace that He will provide me with a job - even if not in PT. He wants us together (fact) and He wants you at Moody (fact) so He'll bless by providing us with money to live (fact) Now either I'll have a job or we'll win a million - either way - He'll provide

No, really - I am at peace about moving and a job and that you are the one. You are my babe and I love everything about you.

We're planning a surprise shower for Cindy next Thursday at Mikka's. She's already had 2 showers which she knew about beforehand. She'll ~~never~~ find out about this one. It'll just be Mik, Carolyn, Judy, Jan + Edie - it'll be more like a party though. Showers tend to be boring, but this one won't be. Anyway, I'm excited about surprising Cindy - I love surprises when I can surprise someone else

Audrey graduates May 5 - this Saturday so she'll be home then. Mom + daddy are going down for graduation. I'll have to get used to sharing a room again. I sorta like just being alone in the room - stay up as late as I want or go early.

Oh, babe I played soccer the other day at Cedar park. There was a game going on there and as we ran past, their ball was kicked out right by me and the guy was coming out to get the ball so I turned and kicked it to him so he wouldn't have to get it. It was funny - I kicked it as hard as I could and then when I turned around everybody

Started clapping. So next time around, we played for about 1/2 hour. It was very informal and nobody cared really about the rules. Mostly just messin' around with it. But it was fun.

Well babe, I'm doing O.K. I'm definitely praying for you with finals coming up and for choosing your P.O.W.

I love your letters. They encourage me and I can see you growing in them even through your letters and when I see that, I'm motivated.

Sorry this is so sloppy. I'm sitting in a weird position. ~~DB~~

I love my babe,
Dae