Hi
'I'm just sitting here in Parkland High School waiting for the play 'Hello Dolly' to start. Vicky's in the orchestra and tonight is free so here I am. You wouldn't believe the summer weather we're having. It's 90° and real humid. I don't know, maybe you're having the same kind of weather. It's beautiful though. Running today was really hot. I felt so great up to 3 miles - then after that I had stomach cramps but I did do 4 miles. I've been averaging 4-5 miles a day and I've been feeling real good at that distance. I'm not going to increase it yet - especially during this heat wave. It takes a few weeks to get used to the hot weather. I really notice a difference - not many people are out running at 5:00 - they probably wait till it cools down in the evening. After running, I usually stick my feet in the creek and sit under the willow trees to cool off. I can't get enough of this weather though and being outside. Today, for lunch, Mike and I went down to Mulkenberg lake (across from Yocco's) and sat there for lunch - it was just too nice to stay inside that stuffy hospital. There was a woman walking around the park there with a basket of cold, wet apples and she was handing them out compliments of WEEV. It tasted so good on a hot day.

Back home: Last night Aud + I went to bible study, which turned out not to be bible study. We sat outside all night and talked. No one else came. I hadn't been there for awhile and I didn't realize that people hadn't been coming. They wanna start rotating the leadership for the summer. They suggested you and I said I'd check with you. It's just something to think about. I don't know what your plans are for the summer. There's no rush on answering babe, I love you so much and can't wait to see you again. I really miss your companionship. Our life together will be great. I'm looking forward to it more everyday. Plans are more or less at a standstill. No one has given me lists (your mom or mine). I have a feeling everything's gonna happen all at once but that's O.K. Right now, I have a lot of time to mess around outside. I can't wait to mess around with you. Sku, I'm really praying about your finals + last minute stuff to do. I know We'll get you through and home to me. Love my babe galerie
